Grounds for appeal

Where an application to join the HGI Professional Register is turned down by the HGI Registration Panel, an unsuccessful candidate may appeal only where s/he believes that in reaching its decision the HGI Registration Panel failed to follow due process, as set out in the HGI Professional Registration Policy and Guidelines for the HGI Registration Panel, which can be viewed at <https://www.hgi.org.uk/sites/default/files/hgi/HGI-Professional-Registration-Policy.pdf> and <https://www.hgi.org.uk/sites/default/files/hgi/Guidelines-for-HGI-Registration-Panel.pdf>.

Powers of the External Oversight Committee (EOC)

In reviewing appeals against a decision of the HGI Registration Panel, the EOC is empowered to examine the evidence provided by the appellant and the HGI Registration Panel, to arrive at an informed decision as to whether or not due process was followed in respect of the appellant's application to join the HGI Register of qualified therapists. Where the EOC finds that the due process was not properly followed, it is further empowered to request the HGI Registration Panel to review its decision to reject the original application.

The EOC is empowered only to decide whether or not due process was followed. It cannot overturn a decision of the HGI Registration Panel based on its professional assessment of an applicant's fitness to join the HGI Register of qualified therapists.

For further information on the powers of the EOC and considerations regarding the admissibility of new evidence, please refer to the procedure for dealing with appeals against decisions of the HGI Registration Panel, which can be viewed at: <https://www.hgi.org.uk/sites/default/files/hgi/EOC-Appeal-Procedure.pdf>

Decisions of the EOC will be final.

application in accordance with the HGI Professional Registration Policy and Guidelines for the HGI Registration Panel (see 'Grounds for appeal' above). Please be as specific as possible, citing the particular point(s) of the Policy and Guidelines that you believe the HGI Registration Panel failed to follow. Please note that the External Oversight Committee is unable to consider appeals where specific information as described above is not provided.
